ABOUT SEAN

With only one functioning lung, a prognosis of fourteen days to live, and being in a medically-induced coma for a year, Sean Swarner is the first cancer survivor to stand on top of the world... Mt. Everest. Sean has broken through defined human limitation in order to redefine the way the world views success.

Sean was diagnosed with two deadly, different, and unrelated forms of cancer, once at the age of thirteen and again at the age of sixteen. After an incredibly poor prognosis, and being read his last rites, Sean astounded the medical community when he survived both these brutal diseases. He realized that after defeating cancer twice, no challenge would ever be too great, no peak too high.

Founder of The Summit Challenge

The Summit Challenge is an all-encompassing series of intentional and individual challenges guiding you on a personal journey of empowerment and motivation. From day one, Sean Swarner becomes your personal guide, leading you step-by-step. You will learn the strategies he used to first crawl 8 feet from the hospital bed to the bathroom, and then to climbing over 29,000 feet to the top of Mt. Everest and beyond. The series of challenges reprograms your mind to overcome any obstacles holding you back from achieving what you most want in life. By utilizing your Personal Core Values (PCVs), you'll be able to recondition your life and your habits to achieve sustainable productivity, focus, and drive.

As Seen In: True North: The Sean Swarner Story

True North follows two-time cancer survivor Sean Swarner on his quest to reach the North Pole and become the world's first cancer survivor to complete the Explorer's Grand Slam-scaling the highest point on all seven continents and then hiking to the North and South Poles. Only a handful of people have ever done it, but no one against the overwhelming odds Sean faced.
