Your choice of a master of ceremonies is vitally important for the success of your event. This individual sets the tone and drives the correct energy for the function.

Alphi has set himself apart as an MC of note through this tailored approach for different audiences that he stands in front of. He is often quoted as saying, "I operate on the currency of trust with my clients, to understand their needs and deliver their desired experience."

Using a combination of humour, wit, research and a general love for people, he keeps audiences riveted and entertained, but is also well-skilled in driving a programme in an orderly and timely manner.

For corporate clients, mainly, Siphon takes the time to research the company and event he is assigned to serve to ensure a seamless performance for the day.

Whether you are hosting a corporate event, a celebration or entertainment event, Alphi is the man for the job - to take charge of the microphone as your MC.

Alphi speaks passionately and with great insight on various topics that are close to his heart. As someone who feels strongly about the empowerment of others, his talks always leave audiences encouraged, educated and inspired to reach the highest of heights in their respective fields of work and influence.

Besides being a well-read experienced professional, he often shares from his personal life which enables him to connect with audiences on a level which most cannot.

WRITER

Through his experience in the communications and PR spaces, Alphi is able to translate hard-hitting topics and issues to a form that can be easily understood and enjoyed - in an accurate manner.

He is a regular contributor to various publications, including XploreZA where he writes for the lifestyle section of the magazine. His style of writing invites readers from all social standings and backgrounds to enjoy his content and gain insights on motoring and domestic travel.

Once again, as an individual who is socialable and well-travelled, he possesses a treasure of experiences, knowledge and wisdom. These enrich his readers who enjoy his simple but artistic approach of writing.

After having frequently travelled all nine provinces in South Africa and our neighbouring countries, Sipho has taken an interest in curating content that is relatable and inclusive to a wide audience of people. This brought about the rise of #AlphiExplores, an online blog/hashtag that profiles the various destinations and secret gems that Alphi explores.

He also writes academic and researched pieces, which enable him not only to contribute content to campaigns but also strategic insights for his clients.
