Why this talk

Inspire

Connect

Empower

The world, the way we work and consumer expectations are changing. More and more people are socially conscious about what they buy and how it impacts the environment and makes the world better. Research shows that more millennials and gen z's care to do work that is meaningful and purposeful

The Age of Social Impact, explores social entrepreneurship and social innovation as part of the way we do business to add value to stakeholders, achieve the Sustainable Development Goals and keep abreast of the times. It also shines a light on the social entrepreneurship ecosystems in Africa and how these can be used to create shared value.
