

Keynote Speaker | MC | Culture & Performance Igniter

Clelland Kruger brings more than three decades of experience in Human Capital and Learning & Development, with a proven track record of shaping organisational cultures that deliver results. Currently Head of Learning and Development at Metropolitan, she has worked across industries from hospitality to retail to financial services, and once managed a global HR portfolio stretching from New York to Dubai. She has been invited to Harvard and has twice led companies to win the Deloitte Best Company to Work For award.

As a seasoned MC and keynote speaker, Clelland is known for bringing focus, clarity, and energy to the stage. Whether hosting a high-profile event or delivering content, she inspires action.

Away from work, she dabbles in photography, supports animal welfare causes, and her love of hiking has seen her complete the 13 Peaks mountain challenge across Table Mountain three times.
